Semester One 2006 - Issue One

➤ Wednesday 12th April 2006

Derek McCormack AUT Vice Chancellor

Prior to this role as Vice Chancellor, he was the Deputy Vice-Chancellor Administration and held positions including General Manager, Corporate Services Director, and Associate Director Academic.

A charismatic speaker who will give you the answers you need- If you want to know what AUT's future is and how it's going to affect you then this event is a must to see!

Questions encouraged!

Also, Barry Coates, the Executive Director of Oxfam NZ, will be briefly speaking before Derek. This Masters graduate from Yale who has devoted his career to poverty reduction and sustainable development will speak about Oxfam and the upcoming Fair Trade Fortnight.

➤ Monday 8th May 2006

Chris Koch, Chief Executive New Zealand Sales Institute

Chris Koch is a highly sought after speaker in the international business arena and has a background as Director of Sales for several companies. He was actively involved in motivating the Sri Lankan cricket team leading up to their win in the 1996 World Cup. In 2004, Chris founded the New Zealand Sales Institute and is currently chairman. Chris focuses on his experiences in both the sporting and business worlds with a strong message about making a difference, and understanding that in modern day business "The relationship is more important than the sale"

Both breakfasts start at 6.30am at the Conference Centre WA

The Breakfast Club and the Community...

We have recently initiated two community-oriented projects to further enhance our contribution to you.

The Breakfast Club has just aligned itself along with Oxfam New Zealand. We are aiming to co-host future charity events that can benefit the community as a whole.

The Breakfast Club is currently working alongside Enterprise New Zealand Trust (ENZT) to formulate a plan to support the Lion Foundation Young Enterprise Scheme – an enterprise programme for high school students.
